EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The City of Omaha contracted with Heritage Research, Ltd., to conduct a Nebraska Historic Buildings Survey (NeHBS) of its Dundee and Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows neighborhoods. The survey was conducted in December 2003 and January 2004 to document properties that possess historic or architectural significance. Approximately 3,600 buildings in the subject neighborhoods were identified and surveyed, of which 1,688 were recorded in the NeHBS—1,139 properties in Dundee and 549 in Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows. Recorded properties were evaluated for their potential to be eligible for the National Register of Historic Places (National Register). Consequently, 139 individual properties are recommended as potentially eligible for the National Register, as is one historic district that largely encompasses the Dundee neighborhood and one district in the Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows neighborhood.

Within the report, when a surveyed building is mentioned, its NeHBS site number follows its reference in the text. These site numbers begin with an abbreviation of the county, DO for Douglas County, and a two-digit number referring to the appropriate community in the county. In this specific case, the City of Omaha's number is 09. The next four numbers reference a specific city plat map on which the property is located, while the last three numbers refer to the specific building or structure within the NeHBS inventory (example: DO09:0433-001).

Heritage Research, Ltd. would like to thank the following state and local organizations and individuals for assisting us with this study: local residents who participated in the public meeting in January; the staff at the Omaha Public Library; the staff at the University of Nebraska—Omaha Library; Lynn Meyer of the City of Omaha Planning Department; Bill Callahan of the Nebraska State Historic Preservation Office (NeSHPO); and the staff of the Nebraska State Historical Society Library.

Heritage Research prepared this report under contract to the City of Omaha. Brian Faltinson was the principal historian for Heritage Research who prepared the survey and report. He was assisted by John N. Vogel and Michael McQuillen.

In addition to the administrative project responsibilities completed by the City of Omaha, NeHBS projects are directed by the NeSHPO with the cooperation of the NSHS. The NeHBS is funded in part with the assistance of a federal grant from the U.S. Department of the Interior, National Park Service. However, the contents and opinions expressed in this publication do not necessarily reflect the views or policies of the U.S. Department of the Interior. Regulations of the U.S. Department of the Interior strictly prohibit unlawful discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, or handicap. Any person who believes he or she has been discriminated against in any program, activity, or facility operated by a recipient of federal assistance should write to: Director, Office of Equal Opportunity, National Park Service, 1849 C Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20240.

CHAPTER 1: HISTORIC OVERVIEW*Introduction

This chapter provides an historic overview of the City of Omaha, as well as for the Dundee and Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows neighborhoods. It provides a context in which to consider the various types of resources examined in this survey. The survey area includes two parts of the city. The first, the Dundee neighborhood, was developed between the late nineteenth and early 20th centuries. The Morton Meadows/Twin Ridge vicinity was then largely built up between the 1920s and 1930s. These two areas include about 1.66 square miles and include approximately 3,600 properties—1,686 of which were surveyed. The boundaries for the Dundee survey area are Happy Hollow Boulevard on the west, Leavenworth and Dodge streets on the south, South 52nd Street and Saddle Creek Road on the east and Hamilton Street on the north. Those for the Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows neighborhood are Saddle Creek Road on the west, Center Street on the south, South 36th and South 42nd streets on the east and Pacific and Leavenworth streets on the north.

This historic overview references specific buildings that are within the survey area. When a particular building is mentioned, the Nebraska Historic Building Survey (NeHBS) number is also included. The site number begins with the county abbreviation (DO for Douglas County) and is followed by the assigned two-digit community number (09 for Omaha). The next four-digit number references a specific city plat map where the property is located and the final three-digit number is the historic resource's assigned number (Example: DO09:0433-001).

Development of the City of Omaha

The City of Omaha traces its beginning to the establishment in 1853 of a ferry crossing that linked Council Bluffs, Iowa, with what would soon become the Nebraska Territory. The next year, speculators platted a 320-block townsite named Omaha, which subsequently became the territorial capital. By the Fall of 1854, twenty houses had been built within the community. These domiciles generally consisted of log cabins, sod dugouts and frame shacks. The Territorial Legislature granted a city charter to Omaha in 1857, which provided for a mayor and city council. Due to its location on the Missouri River, Omaha emerged as a significant steamboat stop, as well as a point of origin for several of the westward migration trails. These factors firmly established the community. But it was the construction of railroads and the establishment of agriculture that made the river town into a prominent city.<sup>1</sup>

During the 1850s, Omaha was among the several starting points discussed for the proposed transcontinental railroad, but movement on the issue did not occur until the start of the Civil War. The first step of this process began in 1862 when local entrepreneur Edward Creighton completed a transcontinental telegraph that connected Omaha and points east with San Francisco. Also in that year, the Pacific Railroad Act created the impetus to place the transcontinental railroad's eastern terminus in Omaha. Construction on the railroad began after the Civil War and Omaha boomed as a result. Thousands of workers flocked to the city to work on the railroad or in its supporting businesses. Omaha grew between 1865 and 1870 from a town of 3,000 to a city of 16,500, the western boundary of which was 36th Street. As a result, Omaha cemented its status as the largest city in Nebraska.<sup>2</sup>

After the transcontinental railroad was completed, Omaha became a regional metropolis due to the rapid settlement of Nebraska and the upper Great Plains. The city was transformed into an important agricultural shipping center as a result of the region's growing farm production. A

CHAPTER 2: SURVEY RESULTS

Objectives

The City of Omaha contracted with Heritage Research, Ltd. (HRL) in September 2003 to conduct a reconnaissance-level survey of the Dundee and Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows neighborhoods in order to identify and document properties that possess historic or architectural merit. HRL staff completed the survey, which expands upon previous survey activities initiated by the City of Omaha, as part of the Nebraska Historic Building Survey (NeHBS). This endeavor updated information regarding previously surveyed properties, as well as identified other properties eligible for inclusion in the NeHBS. The integrity and significance of each property that qualified for the NeHBS was evaluated for its potential National Register of Historic Places eligibility. These resources were also assessed as a group for the purpose of evaluating their contribution to a National Register Historic District. Additional information regarding the NeHBS is found in Chapter 4: Preservation in Nebraska.

Methodology

Survey Area

The survey area consists of two separate neighborhoods that cover approximately 1.66 square miles and are comprised of approximately 3,600 properties. The first survey area is identified as the Dundee neighborhood. It is bounded by Hamilton Street on the north, Happy Hollow Boulevard on the west, Leavenworth and Dodge streets on the south and South 52nd Street and Saddle Creek Road on the east. The second area to be surveyed is known as the Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows neighborhood. It is bounded by Pacific and Leavenworth streets on the north, Saddle Creek Road on the west, Center Street on the south and South 36th Street and South 42nd Street on the east (see maps on pages

3 and 5, respectively). The boundaries are drawn to include contemporary neighborhood associations and may not necessarily correspond to historic subdivisions, annexations and municipal incorporations. Several parks and parkways within the survey boundaries have already been determined eligible for the National Register. (See Previously Surveyed Properties below.)

Background Research

Prior to performing fieldwork, HRL staff conducted research in a variety of sources to gain an understanding of the general history of Omaha and the particular history of the surveyed areas. Repositories investigated included the Nebraska State Historical Society Library and Archives, University of Nebraska-Omaha Library and Archives, Douglas County Historical Society and the Omaha Public Library. The City of Omaha, NeSHPO and HRL staff conducted a public meeting in January 2004 to inform local citizens of the survey, as well as to provide a forum for those residents and community organizations that wanted to share information and highlight locally important sites that merit additional research.

Previously Surveyed Properties

HRL gathered information on sites that have been previously surveyed or investigated, and considered them for National Register eligibility. These properties include those surveyed by the City of Omaha and those cited as local landmarks. An updated photograph was also taken of the Saddle Creek Bridge, which is the only property in the survey areas listed on the National Register of Historic Places. (It should also be acknowledged that the Omaha Parks and Boulevard system, which passes through the Dundee neighborhood, is presently being nominated to the National Register.)

Field Survey

Between December 2003 and January 2004, HRL surveyed every public road and street in the two selected neighborhoods. Properties obscured by dense foliage or that were not visible from the public right-of-way were not surveyed. HRL identified properties with historic and architectural significance that met the following evaluation criteria outlined in the Nebraska Historic Buildings Survey Manual:

- Have reached an age of 50 years or greater
- Retain physical integrity
- Situated in their original location

In accordance with NeHBS guidelines, properties that fell short of the 50-year-old criterion were included in the survey if they were of exceptional importance or were an unusual property type.

In order to be classified as retaining integrity, a property must possess many of those features and characteristics—size and scale, building materials, elements of its architectural style—that were original. To put it more simply, a property must largely retain its original, or historic, appearance. Integrity is affected in cases where original building materials and features—such as windows, doors and porches—have been removed or altered. Modern materials including new sidings (e.g. vinyl, asphalt, aluminum, permastone) and recently constructed additions that obscure historic materials/features also negatively affect integrity. Standards of integrity are more rigorously applied to houses than to other property types, commercial buildings for example, since they are generally greater in number.

Building complexes were evaluated in their entirety. If the primary building or complex did not retain integrity, then associated buildings were not surveyed. In terms of commercial buildings, first-floor storefront alterations are recognized as fairly common and would not necessarily exclude a commercial building from being surveyed.

The field survey documented resources in compliance with the NeHBS manual, as well as the procedures and requirements of the City of Omaha. HRL staff recorded property locations on city plat maps and within the city's Geographic Information System (GIS) database. This database included fields that identified the resource's property type, architectural style, date of construction, architect, builder and historic context(s). Visual documentation included taking at least two black-and-white photographs of newly surveyed properties and update photos of previously surveyed resources. Additional documentation included color slides and digital images of potentially eligible individual resources and representative views of potential historic districts, as well as the overall survey area.

National Register of Historic Places

Properties were evaluated for their potential eligibility for listing in the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP). The NRHP is the official federal list of districts, sites, buildings, structures and objects significant in American history, architecture, archaeology, engineering and culture. To be eligible for National Register-listing, a property must be at least 50 years old and possess historic significance and integrity.

Historic significance is recognized and categorized under any of the following four criteria established by the National Park Service:

- Criterion A - Property is associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our history.
- Criterion B - Property is associated with the lives of persons significant in our past.
- Criterion C - Property embodies the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction, or represents the work of a master, or possesses high artistic values, or represents a significant and distinguishable entity whose components lack individual distinction.

- Criterion D - Property has yielded, or is likely to yield, information important in prehistory or history. (Primarily applied to archaeological sites).

Certain kinds of properties are not usually considered for listing in the National Register including: religious properties, moved properties, birthplaces and graves, cemeteries, reconstructed properties, commemorative properties and properties achieving significance within the past fifty years. However, these properties may be eligible for listing if they fall into any of the following categories:

- Religious properties deriving significance from architectural or artistic distinction or historical importance.
- Moved properties significant for their architectural value or that are the surviving structure most importantly associated with a historic person or event.
- Birthplaces or grave sites of historical figures of outstanding importance if there are no other appropriate sites or buildings directly associated with that person.
- Cemeteries that derive their significance from graves of people of outstanding importance, from age, from distinctive design features, or from association with historic events.
- Reconstructed buildings that are accurately executed in an appropriate environment when no other building or structure with the same association has survived.
- Commemorative properties whose design, age, tradition or symbolic value has imbued it with its own significance.
- Properties that have achieved significance within the past 50 years if they are of exceptional importance.

Integrity, the ability of a property to convey its significance, is also assessed in determining whether that property is eligible for listing in the NRHP. The National Park Service has defined seven qualities that help to determine the integrity of a property:

- Location - the place where the historic property was built or where the historic event occurred.
- Design - the shape, size, plan, structure and style of the property.
- Setting - the physical environment surrounding the historic property.
- Materials - the building materials that were used to construct the property.
- Workmanship - the evidence of the crafts, techniques and skills of a particular culture or people used to create the property.
- Feeling - the property's expression of its historic sense of a particular period of time.
- Association - the direct link between an important historic event or person and the historic property.

This report summarizes and highlights survey results and includes recommendations for potential National Register eligibility and brief historical overviews of the Dundee and Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows neighborhoods. In addition to this document, the City of Omaha received black-and-white contact sheets, negatives, color slides, digital images, survey maps, a GIS database and research files. In addition, the survey report and all digital images were presented to the city on a CD-ROM.

Survey Results

The 2003-04 survey of the Dundee and Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows neighborhoods encompassed an examination of approximately 3,600 properties for their inclusion in the NeHBS. Of this number, a total of 1,688 properties met the guidelines of the NeHBS. More specifically, the Dundee neighborhood possessed 1,139 surveyable resources of which 133 were determined to be potentially eligible for the National Register on an individual basis. In addition, the survey identified the proposed Dundee Historic District (which was subsequently expanded to include Happy Hollow), which is comprised of 932 contributing resources. Efforts in the Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows neighborhood identified 549 properties for inclusion in the NeHBS. Of these, six were determined to be potentially eligible for the National Register on an individual basis. The survey also identified 232 contributing and 63 non-contributing parcels in the proposed Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows Historic District.

Illustrated Discussion of Significant Historic Contexts

The NeHBS survey of the City of Omaha's Dundee and Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows neighborhoods identified resources that reflect historic contexts as defined by the NeSHPO and discussed in the NeHBS manual. Distinct property types exist within each historic context, which provide an outline for particular themes of Nebraska history. This survey identified seven significant historical contexts. A brief discussion of these contexts, with photographs of representative properties, follows. A list of potentially eligible properties associated with these contexts is found in Chapter 3: Recommendations.

Commerce

The historic context of Commerce is affiliated with the buying and selling of goods that are moved from one place to another. Stores were the primary associated resource type found in the survey. Generally, these stores are one- and two-story masonry structures located within distinct commercial corridors along major streets and at prominent intersections. These buildings exhibit several different architectural styles including the prominently used commercial vernacular form pictured below.

The Harte Block is a commercial vernacular building in Dundee (DO09:0435-003).

Diversion

Diversion is associated with the participation in, and watching of, events, activities or shows that relax, entertain or provide amusement. The survey identified two resources—a movie theater/playhouse and golf course—that are identifiable with the Diversion context.

The Dundee Theater, located at 4952 Dodge Street, is a building associated with diversion (DO09:0433-002).

Education

The Education context relates to the act or process of imparting or acquiring knowledge. This survey identified both public and private schools as associated property types. Generally, schools were multiple-story, brick or masonry buildings that encompass a range of architectural styles that include Neoclassical and Art Moderne. The Holy Cross School (DO09:0423-013) located at 1502 S. 48th Street and the Dundee School (DO09:0433-001) at 310 N. 51st Street are two of the schools identified during the survey.

The Holy Cross School at 1502 S. 48th Street (Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows) (DO09:0423-013).

The Dundee School at 310 N. 51st Street (DO09:0433-001).

Government

The historic context of Government relates to the act or process of governing. It incorporates the organization and machinery through which a deliberative body debates decisions and delivers services. Three structures in the project area are associated with the government context. They are either existing or former fire stations, one of which also served as the Dundee Village Hall (DO09:0435-096—see illustration on page 4) prior to its annex-ation by the City of Omaha.

Religion

The Religion context is affiliated with the institutions that reflect a formalized and institutional belief and exercise of faith. Religious property types identified during this survey are limited to churches. These churches generally are substantial brick or masonry structures that embody styles that range from Neo-Gothic to Art Moderne. Generally, religious properties are required to meet a special set of criteria for inclusion on the National Register. They are eligible if they derive their primary significance from architectural distinction or historical importance. Specifically, religious properties are evaluated on the historical, architectural, artistic and cultural value as opposed to the merits of a particular religious doctrine. The Evangelical Lutheran Church in America building at 1312 S. 45th Street (DO09:0314-126) and the Central United Presbyterian Church at 7265 S. 55th Street (DO09:0430-169) are representative examples of the religious properties identified in the survey.

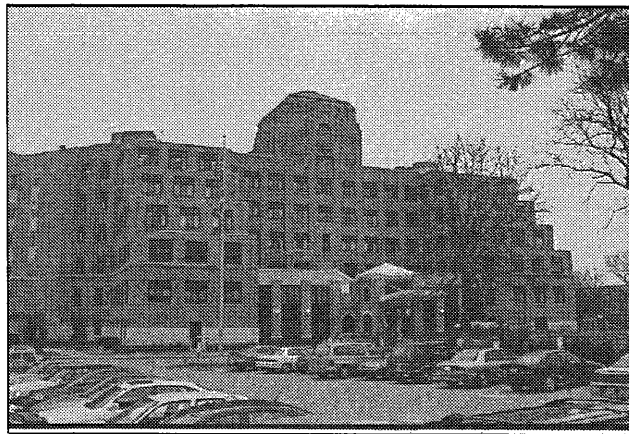

Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, 1312 S. 45th Street (Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows) (DO09:0314-126).

Central United Presbyterian Church, 726 S. 55th Street (Dundee) (DO09:0430-169).

Services

The Services historical context refers to important support services typically provided or controlled by government and are commonly viewed as vital. Two hospitals found in the survey area fit the criteria of the Services context. These facilities are the Douglas County Hospital (DO09-0311-001) at 4102 Woolworth Avenue and the Veterans Affairs Medical Center (DO09-0311-003) located at 4101 Woolworth Avenue.

Douglas County Hospital, 4102 Woolworth Avenue (Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows) (DO09:0311-001).

Settlement/Architecture

The Settlement context relates to the division, acquisition, ownership and development of land. The primary historical resources associated with the Settlement context are houses, duplexes and apartment buildings. Since these neighborhoods are residential in character, most properties surveyed fall under this context. A number of architectural styles are found in the survey area and are discussed below.

- Queen Anne – This type of architecture is a late Victorian era building style characterized by an irregular plan, often evident through asymmetrical walls. A combination of various building materials ranging from shingles, clapboard and brick may be used on one structure, while typical details include large porches or verandas, turrets, bay windows and decorative patterns, such as fish-scale and diamond shingles. Leaded and/or stained-glass windows are also present.

A Queen Anne house located at 4808 Davenport Street (Dundee) (DO09:0433-143).

- American Foursquare – Popularized by mail-order catalogues, the American Foursquare residence, which was prevalent from 1900 to 1930, is typically two stories and features a nearly square plan. It is topped with a low, broad hip roof and is generally pierced on each side by a central roof dormer and also displays a large porch across the front, symmetrical facade. Exterior materials range from clapboard to brick to concrete block and elements influenced by the Colonial Revival style are most often found on foursquare buildings.

An American Foursquare house at 5120 Nicholas Street (Dundee) (DO09:0437-044).

- Arts & Crafts – In 1888, the English Arts and Crafts Exhibition Society was formed by a group of artisans and architects as a reaction against the standardization and industrialization of the products of their respective professions. The lost tradition of craftsmanship of the early nineteenth century was revived by leaders such as John Ruskin and William Morris. The most significant tenet of the Arts & Crafts movement was that of comprehensive design and “bringing the outside in.” Primary characteristics of the style include stucco surfaces and multiple-pane windows, with references of medieval flavor and little ornamentation.

This house at 1001 N. 49th Street demonstrates the Arts & Crafts style (Dundee) (DO09:0437-174).

- Craftsman – Propagated by Gustav Stickley in New York, the Craftsman style is an Americanized interpretation of the more formal Arts & Crafts style. It places an emphasis on natural materials, Craftsman-style buildings are highlighted by low-pitched roofs with wide, unenclosed eaves; exposed rafters and bracing and a large, open porch supported by heavy, square columns.

A Craftsman house at 325 S. Happy Hollow (Dundee) (DO09:0423-063).

- Period Revival – The Period Revival style, which ranges in time from the turn-of-the-century to the 1940s (with particular emphasis in the 1920s), is based on past motifs and styles. Using a variety of historical elements, architects and/or builders of the 1920s could combine those elements to make his or her own interpretation of the style. In turn, they could advertise their versatility, in order to please a broader clientele. Omaha features a variety of Period Revival styles to include the following:

Period Colonial Revival – like the Colonial Revival era from 1895 to 1920, this style is largely based on the classicism of both the Georgian and Federal styles. However, it is considered to be less formal than its predecessors. These structures will generally display overall symmetry, a gabled roof with dormers and modest classical ornamentation that includes dentils, pilasters and shutters.

A Period Colonial Revival house at 5103 Cuming Street (Dundee) (DO09:0437-112).

Spanish Colonial Revival – is relatively rare in Omaha and often gets confused with the Mediterranean Revival style. Both styles incorporate flat wall surfaces broken by tile, brick or terra cotta ornamentation, as well as a red tile roof. While the latter style is often planned around a central courtyard and considered more restrained in its design, Spanish Colonial residential examples often feature shaped gables and a more free interpretation of stylistic elements.

Located at 365 N. 47th Street, this is an example of the Spanish Colonial Revival (Dundee) (DO09:0322-038).

Period Dutch Colonial Revival – a gambrel roof is the primary distinction of this style. The primary facade of such structures is generally symmetrical; however, a one-story wing at one end is not uncommon.

This Dutch Colonial Revival house is at 5104 Nicholson Street (Dundee) (DO09:0437-038).

Period Tudor Revival – is largely based on medieval antecedents. It can be distinguished in part by the use of half-timber work and stucco; however, all brick examples are also very common. The style will generally also feature multiple-light windows, multiple, steeply-pitched gables and a dominant chimney.

This Tudor Revival house is located at 4250 Williams Street (Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows) (DO09:0314-079).

- Bungalow – This is perhaps more a building form than a style that became popular in Nebraska between 1910 and 1940. Characterized as an economical dwelling with simple lines, the bungalow typically rises one-and-one-half stories and features a wide, projecting roof, often low-pitched and featuring a dormer window. The roof, which oftentimes features exposed rafter tails, allows for large, facade-length porches, which may be enclosed. Clapboard siding is generally predominant, but stucco and brick are also used. Woodwork, including carved knee braces and brackets, tends to be plain but solid.

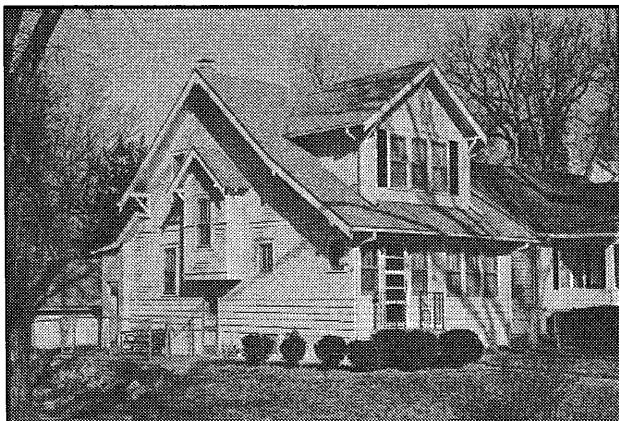

Located at 4316 Marcy Street, this is a front gable bungalow (Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows) (DO09:0316-016).

- Art Moderne – Buildings executed in this style are characterized by flat roofs, smooth wall finishes, minimal ornamentation and rounded corners. The overall appearance is streamlined and modern.

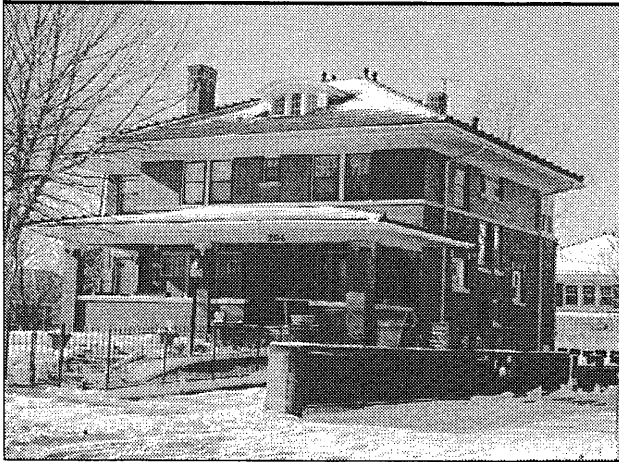

This Art Modern building is at 661 N. 50th Street (Dundee) (DO09:0435-165).

A side gable bungalow at 4426 Barker Avenue (Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows) (DO09:0316-063).

- Prairie – The Prairie style is a truly American style that originated with a group of Chicago-based architects at the turn of the twentieth century. Buildings of this sort feature low-pitched roofs with broad, overhanging eaves. Porches, eaves and other ornamentation accentuates horizontal lines.

This Prairie School house is at 204 N. 52nd Street (Dundee) (DO09:0434-071).

- Vernacular – Refers to buildings without a distinct architectural style because they possess only minimal ornamentation or other elements that are not attributable to a distinct style. Vernacular buildings are best identified by their roof form— front-gable, cross-gable, side- gable, hip-roof and pyramid.

A modest front gable, vernacular building, this house is located at 1014 S. 48th Street (Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows) (DO09:00427-008).

Numerical Summary of Survey Results

The 2003-04 survey of the Dundee and Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows neighborhoods surveyed and documented 1,688 new and previously surveyed resources that meet NeHBS guidelines. All of these properties were evaluated for eligibility for the National Register of Historic Places. Listed below is a numerical summary of survey results.

Chapter 3: National Register and Local Landmark Recommendations

A significant aspect of the 2003-04 NeHBS of Omaha's Dundee and Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows neighborhoods is to identify historic individual resources and districts that are potentially eligible for the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP). The National Register is an honorific program that recognizes properties that possess architectural or historic significance at the local, state or national level. The Saddle Creek Road Underpass at Dodge Street (DO09:0322-014) is the only existing structure in the project area currently listed on the National Register.

The Saddle Creek Underpass is listed on the National Register of Historic Places (Dundee) (DO09:0322-014).

This reconnaissance-level survey identified 133 properties in the Dundee neighborhood and six in the Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows neighborhood that are potentially individually eligible for the National Register. These properties are also candidates for listing as local landmarks by the City of Omaha. These historic resources possess the necessary integrity, characteristics and significance that may allow for their listing on the National Register. Research efforts are limited during a reconnaissance-level survey and, as a result, properties were evaluated primarily on their architectural integrity and merit under Criterion C: Architecture. Further intensive-level research, as well as a review by the Nebraska

State Historic Preservation Office and the Commission on Omaha Landmarks is also required before an actual listing is pursued. In addition, certain historic resources, such as religious properties, may also need to meet NRHP Criteria Considerations in order to qualify for listing.

Proposed National Register Districts

The survey identified two potential National Register Historic Districts, both of which are residential in nature. According to the National Register, a district "possesses a significant concentration, linkage or continuity of sites, buildings, structures or objects united historically or aesthetically by plan or physical development." Buildings within a district are classified as contributing or non-contributing. A contributing building, while it may be individually undistinguished, carries the basic attributes of integrity and significance that allows it to convey a visual sense of an earlier time and place. Naturally, a non-contributing building does not convey that sense. Non-contributing buildings typically are those not built during the district's period of significance or have undergone alterations and no longer possess sufficient architectural integrity.

Dundee/Happy Hollow Historic District

Upon further consideration and neighborhood consultation, the proposed Dundee Historic District (see Survey Results: page 10) was expanded to include the Happy Hollow neighborhood to the northwest (that was not included in the 2003-2004 project area) and an area to the southeast that was part of the city's 2002-2003 survey project. Consequently, starting at the corner of 50th and Hamilton, the District's boundaries extend west to 52nd, south to Western, west to J.E. George, southwest to Underwood, east to Happy Hollow Boulevard, south to Leavenworth, east to 50th, north to Howard, east to 48th, north to Burt, west to 50th, and north to Hamilton (see map on the following page). The National Register District counts all properties within these boundaries as contributing, except for 204 that are non-contributing. And of the contributing properties, 133 are in the 2003-4 survey area and considered eligible for the National Register on an individual basis. As defined by the map below, the district is comprised of several distinct neighborhoods that originally identified with Dundee, which was annexed in 1915 by the City of Omaha. The various subdivisions are connected by the winding and scenic Happy Hollow Boulevard, which was designed utilizing tenets of the Garden City Movement of urban design.

Boundaries of the proposed Dundee/Happy Hollow Historic District.

Significance:

The proposed Dundee/Happy Hollow Historic District is eligible for the National Register under Criterion A, (Community Planning and Development). Dundee was platted as an independent suburb that was later annexed by the City of Omaha. The district is a unique example of early twentieth century suburban development, portions of which embody components of the Garden City Movement. Regarding Criterion C (Architecture), the district offers an excellent collection of structures that embody the architectural styles popular in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Buildings within the district range from standard examples to architect-designed, high-style interpretations of many architectural styles. And tying Criterion A and C together is the fact that, with its level of integrity and the architectural styles exhibited, the district is able to invoke a discernable sense of time and place—which is an Omaha neighborhood of the circa 1920s.

The district's period of significance begins in 1870 when the "Happy Hollow" estate was built and ends in 1954, which is consistent with the National Register's fifty-year rule.

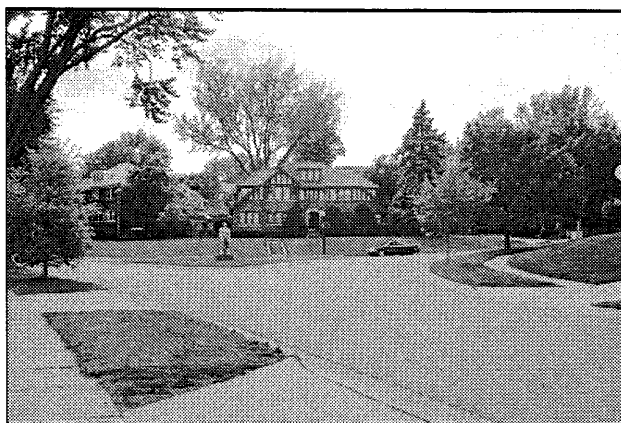

Dundee/Happy Hollow Historic District: Row of duplexes at 48th & Chicago streets.

Dundee/Happy Hollow Historic District: North side of California Street, between 49th and 50th.

Dundee/Happy Hollow Historic District: View of the monument memorializing Dundee's association with the streetcar (located at Underwood and Happy Hollow Boulevard).

Dundee/Happy Hollow Historic District: 56th Street and Happy Hollow Boulevard.

Dundee/Happy Hollow Historic District: Tudor houses along the east side of 50th Street.

Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows Historic District

This proposed district is roughly bounded by Woolworth Avenue on the north, South 48th Street on the west, Center Avenue on the south and South 42nd Street on the east (see illustration below). It includes 295 properties, of which 232 are classified as contributing and 63 as non-contributing. One property, located at 4334 Walnut, is considered individually eligible for the National Register. The tract is identifiable from the surrounding residential tracts by its exhibition of several tenets of the Garden City Movement—a significant style of community design in the early twentieth century. The area's most distinctive Garden City features are the curvilinear Morton Avenue and the broad, park-like Twinridge Boulevard. Architecturally, the homes are of similar scale, massing, materials and setback. Most of the district's houses are examples of the Tudor Revival style and are executed in brick. The tract also contains notable examples of Bungalows and Colonial Revivals. These attributes combine to form a cohesive district.

Significance:

The proposed Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows Historic District is located immediately north of Center Avenue, west of the Veterans Hospital.

The proposed Twin Ridge/Morton Meadow Historic District is eligible for the National Register under Criterion C: Architecture, as a very good collection of early twentieth-century, residential architecture with special emphasis on the Tudor Revival style. The district is also eligible under Criterion A: Community Planning and Development, as an example of a middle-class neighborhood that exhibits aspects of the Garden City Movement. The district's period of significance begins in 1922 when it was first platted and continues generally to the start of the Second World War, which coincides with the end of the tract's development.

Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows Historic District: A Tudor Revival house at 4351 Shirley Street (DO09:0312-243).

Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows Historic District: An individually eligible Tudor Revival house at 4334 Walnut Street (DO09:0312-158).

Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows Historic District: The south side of Walnut Street at Twin Ridge Boulevard.

Potentially Eligible Individual Properties

The 139 historic resources listed in Appendix C are found to be potentially eligible for individual listing on the National Register of Historic Places. Many of these properties are located in either the Dundee or Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows historic districts. A brief discussion of the contexts associated with these properties can be found in Chapter 2: Survey Results.

Future Survey and Research Needs

The recommendations regarding the Dundee/Happy Hollow and Twin Ridge/Morton Meadows historic districts notwithstanding, it is important to remember that the NeHBS is a reconnaissance-level effort. Accordingly, it identified several historical topics and resource types that are suggested for further study. These additional investigations would allow for a more thorough exploration and interpretation of Omaha's unique history. The following are recommended for future research and survey activities. These topics include community-oriented preservation education and involvement.

Omaha Hospital Historic Context and Multiple Property Document

The City of Omaha has a long history of providing quality medical care for its citizens. The city claims a number of hospitals and other health care facilities that include the Douglas County Hospital (DO09:0311-001) and the Veterans' Affairs Medical Center (DO09:0311-003), both of which exist within the project area. Due to advances in medicine and the evolution of hospital infrastructure, older hospital structures are under considerable threat of alteration or outright demolition. The development of a context outlining Omaha's unique medical history would provide the basis for surveying the city's historic-period hospital buildings and complexes. Once a survey is complete, significant properties could be nominated to the National Register utilizing a National Register Multiple Property Document.

Carthage Addition Residential Historic District

This unique, working-class district is bounded by North 50th Street on west, Burt Street on the south, Saddle Creek Road on the east and Hamilton Street on the north. It is comprised of late nineteenth and early twentieth century residences. Architectural styling is modest with bungalows and vernacular houses being the most prevalent. A number of historic-period duplexes also exist within the district, as well as post World War II apartment buildings. Historically, it is believed that this parcel was once part of the Village of Dundee, but later replatted into a separate subdivision. This tract is immediately adjacent to the Omaha Beltline Railroad, which circled the city and connected its industrial areas. More research is needed to determine why this tract was separated from Dundee and how it evolved as a working class neighborhood.

Increased Community Involvement in Historic Preservation

The two neighborhoods surveyed for this project have great potential for historic preservation. But this opportunity cannot be realized fully unless local community groups and individuals are involved with historic preservation efforts. Ideally, these programs would increase public awareness of historic preservation to a level where it became a shared value within the community as well as a measure of community pride. The following is a brief list of options available to the City of Omaha:

- Partner with neighborhood associations and local historical societies to promote the understanding of an area's unique history and take into account preservation when planning future development.
- Increase public awareness of historic properties and their preservation through the development of walking/driving tours, publishing historical brochures and displays of interpretive signage.

- List properties and districts on the National Register.
- Establish local landmarks.
- Continue survey activities and other related projects under the stewardship of the Omaha Certified Local Government and the NSHS.
- Implement a series of workshops taught by building professionals on proper techniques for the maintenance and rehabilitation of buildings in order to maintain their historic appearance.
- Place a historic preservation file in local libraries and historical societies that contains the National Park Service's Preservation Briefs series and the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation & Guidelines for Rehabilitation Historic Buildings, as well as other applicable publications. City and neighborhood association websites can contain links to the online version of these publications.
- Establish local design guidelines. These guidelines encourage practices to protect and ultimately improve the visual character of a neighborhood. They provide property owners with information on the proper care and maintenance of the exteriors of historic buildings. Information would allow owners to make informed decisions on such improvements as window and siding replacement, porch rehabilitation and the tuckpointing of masonry. These design guidelines should follow the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation & Guidelines for Rehabilitation of Historic Buildings.

Chapter 4: Preservation in Nebraska

Throughout much of Nebraska's history, historic preservation was the province of dedicated individuals and organizations working alone in local communities. Since the passage of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, however, the governor of each state has been required to appoint a State Historic Preservation Officer (SHPO) to oversee preservation efforts mandated by the Act. In Nebraska, the Director of the Nebraska State Historical Society (NSHS) serves as SHPO. The staff of the NSHS' Historic Preservation Division forms the Nebraska State Historic Preservation Office (NeSHPO).

The NeSHPO administers a wide range of preservation programs. The duties of the NeSHPO relating to programs called for by the National Historic Preservation Act include:

- Conducting and maintaining a statewide historic building survey.
- Administering the National Register of Historic Places (National Register) program.
- Assisting local governments in the development of historic preservation programs and certification of qualifying governments.
- Administering a federal tax incentives program for the preservation of historic buildings.
- Assisting federal agencies in their responsibility to identify and protect historic properties that may be affected by their projects.
- Providing preservation education, training and technical assistance to individuals and groups and local, state and federal agencies.

What follows is a brief description of NeSHPO programs, followed by a staff guide with telephone numbers. Though described separately, it is important to remember that NeSHPO programs often act in concert with other programs and should be considered elements of the NeSHPO mission and a part of the mission of the NSHS.

Nebraska Historic Buildings Survey

The Nebraska Historic Buildings Survey (NeHBS) was begun in 1974. The survey is conducted on a county-by-county basis and currently includes more than 64,000 properties that reflect the rich architectural and historic heritage of Nebraska. The survey is conducted by researchers who drive every rural and urban public road in a county and record properties that meet certain historic requirements. Surveyors do not enter private property without permission. In addition to this fieldwork, surveyors research the history of the area to better understand their subject. The NeHBS often includes thematic subjects that may be unique to a certain county such as an historic highway or type of industry.

The purpose of the NeHBS is to help local preservation advocates, elected officials, land-use planners, economic development coordinators and tourism promoters understand the wealth of historic properties in their community. Properties included in the survey have no use restrictions placed on them, nor does the survey require any level of maintenance or accessibility by property owners. Rather, the survey provides a foundation for identifying properties that may be worthy of preservation, promotion and recognition within a community.

The NeHBS provides a basis for preservation and planning at all levels of government and for individual groups or citizens. Generally, the NeHBS includes properties that convey a sense of architectural significance. When possible and known, NeHBS also describes properties that have historical significance. The survey is not intended to be a comprehensive history of a county, but a detailed "first look" at historic properties. Additionally, as the NeHBS is in part federally funded, the NeSHPO must use federal guidelines when evaluating and identifying historic properties. In short, the NeHBS is not an end in itself, but a beginning for public planners and individuals that value their community's history.

For more information, please call the NeHBS Program Associate or the Survey Coordinator listed in Nebraska State Historic Preservation Office Contacts.

National Register of Historic Places

One of the goals of the NeHBS is to help identify properties that may be eligible for listing in the National Register. The National Register is our nation's official list of significant historic properties. Created by the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, the National Register includes buildings, structures, districts, objects, and sites that are significant in our history or prehistory. These properties may reflect a historically significant pattern, event, person, architectural style, or archaeological site. National Register properties may be significant at the local, state or national levels.

Properties need not be as historic as Mount Vernon nor architecturally spectacular as the Nebraska State Capitol to be listed in the National Register. Local properties that retain their physical integrity and convey local historic significance may also be listed.

It is important to note what listing a property in the National Register means or, perhaps more importantly, what it does not mean. The National Register does not:

- Restrict, in any way, a private property owner's ability to alter, manage or dispose of a property.
- Require that properties be maintained, repaired or restored.
- Invoke special zoning or local landmark designation.
- Allow the listing of an individual private property over an owner's objection.
- Allow the listing of an historic district over a majority of property owners' objections.
- Require public access to private property.

Listing a property in the National Register does:

- Provide prestigious recognition to significant properties.
- Encourage the preservation of historic properties.
- Provide information about historic properties for local and statewide planning purposes.
- Help promote community development, tourism and economic development.
- Provide basic eligibility for financial incentives, when available.

For more information, please call the National Register Coordinator listed in Nebraska State Historic Preservation Office Contacts.

Certified Local Governments

An important goal of the NeSHPO is to translate the federal preservation program, as embodied by the National Historic Preservation Act, to the local level. One element of this goal is to link local governments with a nationwide network of federal, state and local organizations. One of the most effective tools for this purpose is the Certified Local Government (CLG) program. A CLG is a local government, either a county or municipality, that has adopted preservation as a priority. The City of Omaha has met the following requirements, and has been designated a CLG:

- Establish a preservation ordinance that includes protection for historic properties at a level the community decides is appropriate.
- Promote preservation education and outreach.
- Conduct and maintain some level of a historic building survey.
- Establish a mechanism to designate local landmarks.
- Create a preservation commission to oversee the preservation ordinance and the CLG program.

The advantages that Omaha and other CLGs now claim include:

- Eligibility to receive matching funds from the NeSHPO that are unavailable to non-CLGs.
- Contributing buildings within local landmark districts may be eligible for preservation tax incentives (see following section), without being listed in the National Register.
- Through the use of its landmarking and survey programs, Omaha and other CLG communities have an additional tool when considering planning, zoning and land-use issues relating to historic properties.

- Omaha has the ability to monitor and preserve structures that reflect the community's heritage.
- Omaha has access to a nationwide information network of local, state, federal and private preservation institutions.
- Finally, but not least, Omaha, through its ordinance and commission has a built-in mechanism to promote pride in, and understanding of, its history.

Certification of a local government for CLG status comes from the NeSHPO and the National Park Service, and there are general rules to follow. A community considering CLG status, however, is given broad flexibility within those rules when structuring its CLG program. The emphasis of the CLG program is local management of historic properties with technical and economic assistance from the NeSHPO. The City of Omaha representative associated with the CLG program can be found in the Omaha City Planning Department.

Preservation Tax Incentives

Since 1976 the Internal Revenue Code has contained provisions offering tax credits for the certified rehabilitation of income-producing historic properties. Historic properties are defined as those listed in the National Register, or as buildings that contribute to the significance of a National Register or a locally landmarked (by a CLG, see above) historic district. An income-producing property may be a rental residential, office, commercial or industrial property. Historic working barns or other agriculture-related outbuildings may also qualify.

A certified rehabilitation is one that conforms to the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Historic Buildings. The standards are a common sense approach to the adaptive reuse of historic buildings. It is important to remember that this program promotes the rehabilitation of historic properties so that they may be used to the benefit and enjoyment of the property owner and a community. The program is not necessarily intended to reconstruct or restore historic buildings to exact, as-built specifications.

The tax incentive program in Nebraska has been responsible for:

- Reinvesting millions of dollars for the preservation of historic buildings.
- Establishing thousands of low- and moderate-income housing units and upper-income units.
- Encouraging the adaptive reuse of previously under or unutilized historic properties in older downtown commercial areas.
- Helping to broaden the tax base.
- Giving real estate developers and city planners the incentive to consider projects in older, historic neighborhoods.
- Helping stabilize older, historic neighborhoods.

Certification of the historic character of the income-producing property (usually by listing the property in the National Register) and certification of the historic rehabilitation is made by both the NeSHPO and the National Park Service. Before initiating any activity for a project that anticipates the use of preservation tax credits, owners should contact the NeSHPO and a professional tax advisor, legal counsel or appropriate local Internal Revenue Service office. For more information, please contact the Nebraska State Historic Preservation Office.

Federal Project Review

Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act requires that federal agencies take into account the effect of their undertakings on historic properties; develop and evaluate alternatives that could avoid, minimize or mitigate adverse effects their projects may have on historic properties; and afford the federal Advisory Council on Historic Preservation an opportunity to comment on the project and its effects on historic properties. The regulations that govern the Section 106 process, as it is known, also require that the federal agency consult with the NeSHPO when conducting these activities.

For example, if the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA), through the Nebraska Department of Roads, contemplates construction of a new highway, FHWA must contact the NeSHPO for assistance in determining whether any sites or structures located in the project area are listed in, or eligible for listing in, the National Register. If properties that meet this criteria are found, the FHWA must consult with the NeSHPO to avoid or reduce any harm the highway might cause the property. Note that a property need not actually be listed in the National Register to be considered for protection, only to have been determined eligible for listing. This process is to take place early enough in the planning process to allow for alternatives that would avoid adverse effects to historic properties; i.e., in the example above, the modification of a new highway's right-of-way could avoid an archaeological site or historic barn.

It is important to note that public participation in this process is vital. The Section 106 process requires the federal agency to seek views of the public and interested parties if adverse effects to historic properties are discovered through consultation with the NeSHPO. The NeSHPO examines information provided by the federal agency, the NeHBS, and the National Register; but often the most valuable information comes from comments provided by the public. Section 106 was included in the National Historic Preservation Act to protect locally significant historic properties from unwitting federal action. It is truly a law that gives the public a voice in an unwieldy bureaucratic system.

For more information about Section 106 review, please contact a member of the Federal Agency Review staff of the NeSHPO listed in Nebraska State Historic Preservation Office Contacts.

Public Outreach and Education

The primary function of the NeSHPO is to assist communities in preserving significant buildings, sites and structures that convey a sense of community history. The most powerful tool available to the NeSHPO in this regard is public education. For this reason, NeSHPO staff spend considerable time conducting public meetings and workshops and disseminating information to the public.

The NeSHPO's goal is to assist local individuals, groups and governments understand, promote and preserve historic properties. The NeSHPO advocates not only the self-evident aesthetic advantages of historic preservation, but also the potential for preservation to help promote economic development, community planning, tourism, environmental sensitivity and land-use planning.

The above short descriptions are meant to orient the reader to the NeSHPO programs within the larger mission of the NSHS. As all NeSHPO programs originate from a common source - the National Historic Preservation Act - they work best when they work together, either in whole or in part. For the programs to function at all, they require the interest and participation of the people they are meant to serve . . . the public.

GLOSSARY

Art Moderne Style (circa 1930-1950). An architectural style featuring industrial technology and streamlined simplicity. Features include smooth, rounded corners, horizontal massing, details in concrete, glass block, aluminum, and stainless steel.

Association. Link of historic property with a historic event, activity, or person. Also, the quality of integrity through which a historic property is linked to a particular past time and place.

Balloon frame. A type of support for wood-frame buildings that utilizes vertical studs that extend the full height of the wall and floor joists fastened to the studs with nails. Balloon-frame buildings in Nebraska became popular with the expansion of the railroad when milled lumber could be shipped to the plains for relatively low cost.

Bay window. A decorative window that projects out from the flat surface of an exterior wall, often polygonal in design. Bay windows are often seen on Queen Anne style buildings.

Boom-Town (circa 1850-1880). See false-front.

Brackets. Support members used under overhanging eaves of a roof, usually decorative in nature.

Building. A building is erected to house activities performed by people.

Bungalow/Craftsman Style (circa 1890-1940). An architectural style characterized by overhanging eaves, modest size, open porches with large piers and low-pitched roofs.

Circa, Ca., or c. At, in, or of approximately, used especially with dates.

Clapboard. Relatively long, thin boards that have a thick lower edge and a feathered, or tapered upper edge. The shape of the boards permits them to be overlapped horizontally. Clapboard is most commonly used as cladding material on vernacular farm houses and their secondary buildings.

Column. A circular or square vertical support member.

Commercial Vernacular Style (circa 1860-1930). A form of building used to describe simply designed commercial buildings of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, which usually display large retail windows and recessed entrances on the first floor.

Contributing (National Register definition). A building, site, structure, or object that adds to the historic associations, historic architectural qualities for which a property is significant. The resource was present during the period of significance, relates to the documented significance of the property, and possesses historic integrity, or is capable of yielding important information about the period.

Example of Commercial Vernacular style.

Contributing (NeHBS definition). A building, site, structure, object, or collection of buildings such as a farmstead that meets the NeHBS criteria of integrity, historic association, historic architectural qualities, and was present during the period of significance. A property that contributes to the NeHBS is generally evaluated with less strictness than for an individual listing on the National Register, yet more strictness than a building which may “contribute” to a proposed National Register district.

Cross-Gable (circa 1860-1910). A vernacular building form typically two stories and square in plan with two identical roofs whose ridges intersect to produce a cruciform.

Design. Quality of integrity applying to the elements that create the physical form, plan, space, structure, and style of property.

Dormer. A vertical window projecting from the roof. Variations of dormer types can be based on the dormer's roof form, for example shed dormer, gable dormers, and hipped dormers.

Dutch Colonial Revival Style (circa 1900-1940). A residential architectural style based on the more formal Georgian Revival style. This style is identified by its gambrel roof and symmetrical facade.

Eclectic Style (circa 1890-1910). An eclectic building displays a combination of architectural elements from various styles. It commonly resulted when a house designed in one architectural style was remodeled into another.

Elevation. Any single side of a building or structure.

Eligible. Properties that meet the National Parks Service Criteria for nomination and listing on the National Register of Historic Places.

Evaluation. Process by which the significance and integrity of a historic property are judged and eligibility for National Register of Historic Places (National Register) listing is determined.

Extant. Still standing or existing (as in a building, structure, site, and / or object).

False-front (circa 1850-1880). A vernacular building form which is typically a one-and-one-half story front gable frame building with a square facade that extends vertically in front of the front-facing gable. This gives an entering visitor the sense of approaching a larger building. This form is often used in the construction of a first-generation commercial building, thus is also known as “boom-town.”

Feeling. Quality of integrity through which a historic property evokes the aesthetic or historic sense of past time and place.

Fenestration. The arrangement of windows and other exterior openings on a building.

Foursquare Style (circa 1900-1930). Popularized by mail-order catalogues and speculative builders in the early twentieth century, this style is typified by its box-like massing, two-stories, hipped roof, wide overhanging eaves, central dormers, and one-story porch spanning the front facade.

Front Gable (circa 1860-1910). The vernacular form of a building, generally a house, in which the triangular end of the roof faces the street.

Gable. The vertical triangular end of a building from cornice or eaves to ridge.

Gabled Ell (circa 1860-1910). The vernacular form of a building, generally a house, in which two gabled wings are perpendicular to one another in order to form an "L"-shaped plan.

Gable end. The triangular end of an exterior wall.

Gable roof. A roof type formed by the meeting of two sloping roof surfaces.

Gambrel roof. A roof type with two slopes on each side.

High Victorian Gothic (circa 1865-1900). This architectural style drew upon varied European medieval sources and employed pointed arches and polychromatic details. The heavier detailing and more complex massing made this style popular for public and institutional buildings.

Hipped roof. A roof type formed by the meeting of four sloping roof surfaces.

Historic context. The concept used to group related historic properties based upon a theme, a chronological period, and / or a geographic area.

Historic siding materials

As asphalt building materials became more popular, companies such as Flinkote, Johns-Manville, Ruberoid, and Pabco began creating siding materials in addition to roof shingles. The asphalt roofing industry developed between 1903 and 1920, creating varied shingle sizes and shapes. The siding shingles were typically similar in color and design to the roofing shingles, but were larger in size. During the 1930s, the Flinkote Company offered a siding pattern that imitated bricks. During World War II the use of asbestos-cement siding and roofing materials rose to new levels, primarily as a result of the need to enclose munitions supplies with an easy assembled, inexpensive, fireproof material. The material became a popular residential building material following the war. Asbestos-cement siding shingles, also referred to as slate siding, came in a wide variety of colors, sizes, and textures. During production, asbestos fibers were typically bound with cement, causing the asbestos to be unable to breathe, and therefore limiting the health risk. The material proved popular because of building material shortages caused by the war, the efficient price, and the benefit of being fireproof. Companies that produced asphalt building materials, such as Johns-Manville, Ruberoid, and Pabco also produced asbestos materials. Advertisements from the 1950s show how popular these products were, and claimed that they could modernize a home, add fireproof protection, and were a permanent, no maintenance product. Production began during World War II, and some companies produced siding into the 1980s, although rising health concerns about the materials in the 1960s curtailed popularity. (Discussion adapted from Thomas C. Jester, ed., Twentieth-Century Building Materials [Washington D.C.: The McGraw-Hill Companies, 1995], 42, 250).

Example of Gabled Ell building form.

Integrity. Authenticity of a property's historic identity, evidenced by the survival of physical characteristics that existed during the property's historic period.

Italianate Style (circa 1870-1890). A popular style for houses, these square, rectangular, or L-shaped, two-story buildings have low-pitched, hip roofs, with wide eaves usually supported by heavy brackets, tall narrow windows, and front porches. In some cases, the roof may be topped with a cupola.

Keystone. A wedge-shaped piece at the crown of an arch that locks the other pieces in place. It is seen most often over arched doors and window openings and is sometimes of a different material than the opening itself.

Late Gothic Revival Style (circa 1880-1920). A later version of the Gothic style, these buildings are generally larger and use heavy masonry construction. In churches, masonry is sometimes used throughout the structure. The pointed-arch window openings remain a key feature; however, designs are more subdued than those of the earlier period.

Location. Quality of integrity retained by a historic property existing in the same place as it did during the period of significance.

Materials. Quality of integrity applying to the physical elements that were combined or deposited in a particular pattern or configuration to form a historic property.

Mediterranean Revival (circa 1900-1940). These buildings are characterized by flat wall surfaces, often plastered, broken by a series of arches with terra cotta, plaster, or tile ornamentation. Details such as red tile roofs and heavy brackets are also commonly seen.

Multiple Property Nomination. The National Register of Historic Places Multiple Property documentation form nominates groups of related significant properties. The themes, trends, and patterns of history shared by the properties are organized into historic contexts. Property types that represent those historic contexts are defined within the nomination.

National Register of Historic Places (National Register). The official federal list of districts, buildings, sites, structures, and objects significant in American history, architecture, archaeology, engineering, and culture that are important in the prehistory or history of their community, state, or nation. The program is administered through the National Park Service by way of State Historic Preservation Offices.

National Register of Historic Places Criteria. Established criteria for evaluation the eligibility of properties for inclusion in the National Register.

Neo-Classical Style (circa 1900-1920). An architectural style characterized by a symmetrical facade and usually includes a pediment portico with classical columns.

Noncontributing (National Register definition). A building, site, structure, or object that does not add to the historic architectural qualities or historic associations for which a property is significant. The resource was not present during the period of significance; does not relate to the documented significance of the property; or due to alterations, disturbances, additions, or other changes, it no longer possesses historic integrity nor is capable of yielding important information about the period.

Noncontributing (NeHBS definition). A building, site, structure, object, or collection of buildings such as a farmstead that does not meet the NeHBS criteria of integrity, historic association, historic architectural qualities, or was not present during the period of significance. Noncontributing properties are not generally entered into, or kept in, the NeHBS inventory; however, exceptions do exist.

Object. An artistic, simple, and / or small-scale construction not identified as a building or structure; i.e. historic signs, markers, and monuments.

One-story Cube (circa 1870-1930). The vernacular form of a house, which is one-story and box-like in massing. Features generally include a low-hipped roof, a full front porch recessed under the roof, little ornamentation, and simple cladding, such as clapboard, brick, or stucco. Also known as a Prairie Cube.

Example of One Story Cube building form.

Period of Significance. Span of time in which a property attained the significance for which it meets the National Register criteria.

Pony truss bridge (circa 1880-1920). A low iron or steel truss, approximately 5 to 7 feet in height, located alongside and above the roadway surface. Pony truss bridges often range in span lengths of 20 to 100 feet.

Portico. A covered walk or porch supported by columns or pillars.

Potentially eligible. Properties that may be eligible for listing on the National Register pending further research and investigation.

Property. A building, site, structure, and / or object situated within a delineated boundary.

Property type. A classification for a building, structure, site, or object based on its historic use or function.

Queen Anne Style (circa 1880-1900). A style that enjoyed widespread popularity, particularly in the eastern portion of Nebraska. These houses are typically two stories tall, have asymmetrical facades, and steeply pitched rooflines of irregular shape. Characteristics include a variety of surface textures on walls, prominent towers, tall chimneys and porches with gingerbread trim.

Example of Side Gable building form.

Setting. Quality of integrity applying to the physical environment of a historic property.

Shed roof. A roof consisting of one inclined plane.

Side Gable (circa 1860-1940). The vernacular form of a building, generally a house, in which the gable end of the roof is perpendicular to the street.

Significance. Importance of a historic property as defined by the National Register criteria in one or more areas of significance.

Site. The location of a prehistoric or historic event.

Spanish Colonial Revival Style (circa 1900-1920). These buildings, which have a southwestern flavor, show masonry construction usually covered with plaster or stucco, red clay tiled hipped roofs and arcaded porches. Some facades are enriched with curvilinear and decorated roof lines.

Structure. Practical constructions not used to shelter human activities.

Stucco. A material usually made of Portland cement, sand, and a small percentage of lime and applied in a plastic state to form a hard covering for exterior walls.

Tudor Revival Style (circa 1920-1940). A style that reflects a blend of variety of elements from late English medieval styles. It is identified by steep gables, half-timbering, and mixes of stone, stucco, and wood.

Turret. A little tower that is an ornamental structure and projects at an angle from a larger structure.

Two -story Cube (circa 1860-1890). The vernacular form, generally for a house, which is a two-story building, box-like in massing, with a hipped roof, near absence of surface ornament, and simple exterior cladding such as brick, clapboard, or stucco.

Vernacular. A functional, simplistic building or structure without stylistic details. Vernacular form buildings were usually designed by the builder, not by an architect.

Workmanship. Quality of integrity applying to the physical evidence of the crafts of a particular culture, people, or artisan.
